The man of pleaſure and t free-thinker who deny the beı of a GOD, and live as they l under the notion that all thin came into being by Chance, w do well to conſider, if the wor was made by Chance, wheth there might not be alſo a H made by Chance, and they ſhou fall into it by Chance, and ſo t Chance be miſerable to all ete nity; what a damnable Chanc this will be!

Man, thoughtleſs man, whoſe moment quickly fly,
Wakes but to ſleep again, and lives t die;
And when this preſent fleetinglife is o'er, Man dies to live, and lives to die no more. SOLITARY WALKS.

PART III.

BOB SHORT The Country 'Squire LONDON, 1781 HASKOLL COLLECTION, THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY Octavo